Company visit Thales

On Thursday, January 26, we had a company visit at Thales in Hengelo.

Thales is a global electronics company active in the fields of: aviation, defense and information technology. The location in the Netherlands is the largest defense company in the Netherlands and produces advanced radar and infrared equipment, they also make fire control systems. Thales' radar systems can be used to detect stealth aircraft. Even though Thales makes the coolest products for defense, they also make the well-known OV poles that you as a student use every day.
